We ordered soft close hinges for all of our cabinet doors. During the installation we noticed that half of the cabinet doors were opening out into walls or the cooker hood so, over the phone, we ordered 90° hinges from IKEA. After the installation, we noticed ourselves that the new 90° hinges weren't soft-close.

So find a drill bit about the size of the binding post if not a fraction larger. drill through the hole in one cabinet into the other cabinet, be sure to manhandle the cabinets to make sure this is straight, if there is a large gap between them (remember squaring the cabinets, me neither) drill through one side then drill through the other side and push the binding post through and lift or pull the other cabinet to mate up to it and bolt together.
